Fellow Members of the Archmere Family:

In my last correspondence I shared with you that we would follow up with five of the candidates for Head of School. After initial interviews, two of the candidates appeared attractive in terms of meeting the criteria for the Head of School as outlined in my letter of April 13th. These two "finalists" were invited to campus this week for further interviews and meetings with administration, alumni, faculty, students and trustees. I am very grateful for those who have donated their time to these important meetings.

The search committee will now spend time assessing its interviews as well as collating and analyzing feedback from the meetings with the Archmere community. Subsequent to this collation we anticipate further conversations with the candidates and the search committee will provide input and our recommendation to the full board for a decision sometime in August or September. Please remember that following a board decision, Archmere's Corporate Members must approve the board's action and we still anticipate an announcement of a new Head before end of summer or early fall.

Thank you again for your support, suggestions and prayers.

Anthony A. Latini, Jr. '82
